

I felt I wasn't normal.
I miss my sisters, but I don't want to go back.

When I was eight I walked home after school with my brother to find my mom and dad drunk.
My dad got abusive, neighbors called the police. I fled to the police.
I was scared of my dad, and it got worse over the years.
The drugs and abuse
continued through my freshman year. I told one of my counselors at school, and CPS came to the house. We were taken away that day.
I was very connected to my grandma. When she passed, I felt I had no one...that I couldn't move on without her.

"There is always a way to get back up...to be confident,
and not be afraid."

Now, I'm very calm. I'm more respectful, more caring. I'm in a group home now.
