Students from Addicott Elementary School will visit the SpiritHorse Connections therapy horse facility in Kingsburg with the help and support of the district’s Transportation Department. This will be the first out of town field trip for Addicott, which serves pre-kindergarten through seventh grade students with severe disabilities, including those who are orthopedically impaired, intellectually disabled, have multiple disabilities, are deaf and have other health impairments.

Students will have the opportunity to experience a petting zoo, farm animals and a picnic. Some of the students will get to ride the therapy horses.

“With the help of our transportation folks, Addicott is providing its students with a wonderful field trip that will stimulate their senses and expand their horizons,” said Superintendent Bob Nelson.
