Speaker Robb Holladay will be at Kings Canyon Middle School to speak to students and parents about the dangers of vaping. Holladay is a retired specialist in medical imaging and now a motivational speaker for youth. His experience in the medical field allows him to talk about the health risks and dangers of vaping. Students at Kings Canyon will participate in an assembly and write school-wide about the topic. An informational meeting will be offered for parents.

The assemblies are part of Red Ribbon Week, which highlights the dangers of using drugs.

“It is very important that our students understand the dangers of vaping, and that our parents are aware of how widespread vaping is. We want our students to be healthy and focused on their education. This presentation aligns with the district’s efforts to educate and prevent the use of vape pens. We need the support of parents and staff in this matter and Kings Canyon Middle School is setting a great example,” said Superintendent Bob Nelson.
