Fresno Unified’s Adult Transition Program (ATP), which helps students with disabilities be as self-reliant as possible, will hold a Community Resource Fair for not only its own students, but similar students from throughout the valley. The event will feature a variety of organizations and agencies that can provide resources and information to help students with disabilities be independent. The event will also feature food trucks, with a portion of the sales supporting ATP on Fairmont. This is ATP’s fourth resource fair.

“This is a great opportunity for our young adults who will need help transitioning from the structure of school to find out what resources and supports can help them in this new phase of their life,” said Superintendent Bob Nelson.
