Fresno Unified's Food Services will host the fourth annual Spring Food Expo to highlight vendors. New and current menu items will be available for students and community members to taste. The expo will also offer nutrition education, activities, games and prizes.

The mission of the Food Services Department is to provide the students of Fresno Unified with nutritious and appetizing meals to help them do their best in school each day. The district's partnership with food vendors and input from students, families and the community supports this goal.

"When students come to school hungry, they may have trouble focusing and learning. The annual food expo helps our staff develop new menu items and strategies to encourage healthy eating for our students," said Superintendent Bob Nelson.
