Virtual Summer Camp Offerings Go Live this Morning

What: The district launches new virtual summer learning for all students

When: Monday, June 15, 2020

Availability: Staff available for interviews upon request

Virtual Summer Camps become available to all students beginning today. No registration is required. Students learn and engage at their own pace through virtual activities and tours. Summer learning includes offerings from the Center for Advanced Research and Technology (CART), the Chaffee Zoo and the Lyles Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship at Fresno State, as well as several career-path camps.

“We have revamped the way we do summer learning so that every student who wants to can participate in a fun virtual camp experience. We are pleased to offer some great options for our students as we learn how to navigate this new world of distance learning,” said Superintendent Bob Nelson.
